

Economic Security

Every human being has innate gifts and talents; when these are utilized well, they enable us to become economically independent and prosperous. As we nurture and grow our talents and become productive, we provide goods or services to our communities. Collectively, as we strive, seek and provide; we create a thriving society.

Our noble purpose as individuals is intertwined with our economic security. As we fulfill our purpose, then, we also realize our economic growth. As we persist on this journey of fulfilling our noble purpose, our economic security grows as a byproduct. When your economic security flows from your noble purpose, you will experience true peace and lasting joy.

Often in the course of our life-time we inherit or encounter traumatic conditions, stress, or negativity. When these conditions linger in the psyche; they form a negative Emotional Parasite which corrupts the use of innate talents. Emotional parasites may hinder the growth and prevent the productivity of innate talents, or it may also divert the use of these talents away from the fulfillment of the intended noble purpose. When talents are used for corrupt purposes; they bring harm, pain and suffering to the individual and the society. Ultimately, regardless of the financial or material success that may be attained through these corrupted means; true peace or lasting joy will never be obtained.

We are here to assist you in developing your capacity to effectively dissolve any negativity, stress or trauma. This process unleashes your God-centered spiritual energy which nurtures your talents and their use toward noble purposes. On this path, your lasting economic security will unfold; you will be productive, content and peaceful.
